THE MUSICAL ADVENTURES OF FLAT STANLEY

Book by Timothy Allen McDonald

Lyrics by Timothy Allen McDonald & Jonathan K. Walker

Music by David Weinstein, Jonathan K. Walker, Timothy Allen McDonald & Stephen Gabriel based on the book FLAT STANLEY by Jeff Brown

Stanley Lambchop is just like everyone else. That's the problem. For Stanley, life is TOO normal. Determined to do something amazing, something no one's ever seen before, he makes a wish on a falling star. That night, the bulletin board on the wall above Stanley's bed comes loose and falls – right on top of him! The next morning, Stanley Lambchop wakes up flat. Not just a little flat...really, really flat! Thus, begins his new life and an unexpected quest to see the world, which comes surprisingly easy when you can travel through the mail as a letter! Along the way, Stanley thwarts a robbery at the Louvre Museum in Paris and surfs off the coast of Hawaii. He's stamped, posted and cancelled from Hollywood to France to Honolulu and beyond. Once Stanley realizes that great adventures aren't as special without his family around to share them, he becomes a three-dimensional boy once again and learns that heroes come in all shapes and sizes.

Jeff Brown's beloved children's book, "Flat Stanley," was written in 1964 and has become a literary and pop cultural phenomenon. The musical stage adaptation has followed in its footsteps receiving national critical acclaim. It's a fun, Broadway-style musical comedy about the value of being different and the importance of family.

Enjoyed by ages 5 through adult or grades K through 5th

Additional Description:

You know this guy! In a whirlwind musical travelogue, Stanley - the ultimate exchange student - scours the globe to do something the world has never seen before, and learns that heroes come in all shapes and sizes. Everyone's two-dimensional friend is on the road again in THE MUSICAL ADVENTURES OF FLAT STANLEY touring throughout the United States from September 2020 through May 2021.

Stanley Lambchop is just like everyone else, but one night he makes a wish to be something special...and it comes true! Soon to be celebrating its 51st anniversary, Jeff Brown's beloved children's book, "Flat Stanley," was written in 1964 and has become a literary and pop cultural phenomenon. The musical stage adaptation was published in 2008 and has been hitting the Theater for Young Audiences (TYA) national circuit to critical acclaim.

Stanley is your ordinary, everyday, run-of-the-mill ten-year old, and for Stanley, life is too normal. He wants to do something amazing, something no one's ever seen before. So, he makes a wish to travel the world. That night, the bulletin board on the wall above Stanley's bed comes loose and falls – right on top of him. The next morning, Stanley Lambchop wakes up flat. Not just a little flat...really, really flat! Thus, begins his quest to see the world, which comes surprisingly easy when you can travel through the postal system as a letter! He thwarts a robbery at the Louvre Museum in Paris and surfs off the coast of Hawaii. He's stamped, posted and cancelled from Hollywood to France to Honolulu and beyond. Once Stanley realizes that great adventures aren't as special without his family around to share in the joy and excitement, he wishes to become a three-dimensional boy once again.
